

UP 473 Introductory Information

UP 473 Introductory Survey

Welcome to Up 473: Housing and Urban Policy
Our course is designed to give you a broad overview of the rationale for and evolution of housing policy in the United States. We will also spend time looking at contemporary housing issues in the United States. This introductory survey is designed to help me learn more about you and to tailor our course to your interests and current level of knowledge about housing policy. This survey will help me to select (or revise) my plans for foundational course readings, and will help me set learning objectives for various points in the class,
For the questions I ask, please provide answers to the best of your ability - I do not expect you to have complete answers to the questions - that's what our time together is for!

* 1. Name (Last Name, First Name):

2. Preferred name (if different from above):

3. In the past, I have (select all that apply):
- ☐ Previously taken another course about housing policy or housing studies
 - ☐ Worked for a community organization involved in housing issues
 - ☐ Worked for a business involved in housing issues
 - ☐ Worked for a federal / state / or local agency involved in housing issues
 - ☐ Other specialized knowledge related to the field of housing, community development, finance, policy, or analysis

Introductory Survey

Please complete today if you haven't already.

This is not a test - I don't expect you to have all the answers (that's what this class is for!)

UP 473: Housing and Urban Policy

Welcome to the UP 473: Housing and Urban Policy course website for the spring 2023 semester.

Instructor

- 👤 Dr. Andrew J. Greenlee
- 🏛️ M210 Temple Buell Hall
- ✉️ agreen4@illinois.edu
- 🐙 Github
- 🐦 urbprof
- @ <https://fediscience.org/@urbprof>
- 📅 Schedule an appointment

Course details

- 📅 Mondays and Wednesdays
- 🕒 2:00 PM - 3:20 PM
- 📍 Temple Buell Hall 17